ALL AMERICA SINGING

Musical Dreams of What Will Be When War Is Over.

(J. MacB. in Washington Times.)
If dreams come true, there are great things in store for Washington "when the war is at an end." Gilbert Wilson, the captivating song leader from Quantico, told of a wonderful dream he had. It was in a little confidential talk to the third vast audience at the third great Sunday "Sing" given at the Central High school yesterday afternoon.

But the program of this third "experiment," as Mr. Keats is still calling them, though they seem to have passed beyond that stage, the attractive program offered yesterday was surely a fulfillment of a part of this dream that takes the part of a prophecy.

The Camp Meade Glee club, under the able leadership of Kenneth Clarke, song leader for the army at Camp Meade, was the great attraction of the day. These hundred boys in khaki, picked voices from the 45,000 soldiers at the camp, sang delightfully, and were rewarded from their

WAISTCOAT ADDS STYLISH TO THE SUIT

(By Betty Brown.)

The waistcoat makes the 1918 suit quite different from any out-of-door clothes of a previous vintage. But no patriotic woman who is wearing a last year suit need worry very much. It is not difficult to add a stylish 1918 vest to a 1917 coat suit. The shops supply new waistcoats in great variety of cut and in almost every material between organdy and angora wool. The vest shown in today's fashion is touched up with huge black buttons to match the black satin lining of the sleeves, collar and pockets.

very first appearance in the auditorium throughout their stay with enthusiastic appreciation.

Gilbert Wilson's Dream.

The dream was this:
When the war is over and the boys come home, a vast chorus was found assembled somewhere here in the national capital, somewhere in the shadow of the capitol building. They were singing beautifully together, to welcome the victors as they came. And what were they singing? asked Mr. Wilson. They were singing the great "Hallelujah Chorus," the noble "The Heavens are Telling," "Unfold Ye Portals," and the "Gloria" from Mozart's mass in B minor.

The coming home here and in other cities of the land are to part for that welcome. As they progress music may have to be led for them, for the progress is going straight ahead, and, as Mr. Wilson said, we are to fulfill the words of America's great poet, who was first recognized in England, when Walt Whitman sang, "I hear America singing."

BARGER-HILLERY WEDDING
SOLLEMIZED WEDNESDAY

A marriage which centered the interest of a large circle of friends was that of Miss Eva Barger, of Chattanooga, and Perry Hillery, of Columbus, O., which was solemnized at the Pilgrim Congregational church at 8:30 o'clock last evening. Dr. Charles Haven Myers officiated, using the ring ceremony.

The church of the church was decorated with dogwood blossoms. The wedding music, which was a beautiful feature, consisted of a solo, "I Love Thee" (Robert Franz), by Miss Eleanor Potts, and Mendelssohn's Wedding March. Mrs. O. E. Faucette played the accompaniment to Miss Potts' solo.

The bride and groom entered the church preceded by the ushers, Archie Day and Clarence Hall.

The bride was attired in a coat suit of midnight blue with touches of gray, with modish hat, and her corsage was

GEORGIA TECH GOLF TEAM TRIUMPHS OVER COLUMBIA

Adair, Prescott, Watkins and Howden Show Superiority
Over New York Boys.

New York, April 25.—The Georgia Tech golf team Tuesday defeated the University of Columbia over the Englewood golf course by the overwhelming score of 16-0 points.

The first matches were played in the morning. Perry Adair, of Tech, defeated Walter Boyd, Jr. (intercollegiate and Staten Island champion), and A. J. Boyd, while Ewing Watkins and Fred Howden were matched against Biggs and Straumburg. Adair and Prescott defeated Walter Boyd 5-4, Adair plying the course in 1-6, an exceptionally good score, as a high wind was blowing. Watkins and Howden defeated their opponents easily 5-3. Scores for morning matches: Tech, 8; Columbia, 0.

The afternoon matches all went to the Tech team. Adair won over A. L. Walker, Jr., 5-4. The match was fairly even until Walker laid Adair a stympie on the twelfth green, and Perry pitched over his ball into the cup for a win. This seemed to upset Walker and Adair had easy sailing on in.

HOW CHARLIE CHAPLIN LOOKS AT CLOSE RANGE

While in Columbia, S. C., this week, Mrs. D. A. Graves, of this city, had an opportunity for studying Charlie Chaplin at close range, when at a rival he was the center of attraction at the hotel in which Mr. and Mrs. Graves were stopping. She says his coming to Columbia, in the interest of the liberty bond sale was really an event, and people were waiting in the lobby, grouped on the stairway and hanging over the railing of the balcony, to catch a glimpse of the national fun maker.

The young man is described as immaculate in dress, has small feet, is smoothly shaven and wears a very naive expression. There really is not a vestige of the Charlie Chaplin of the movie films except for his stature and weight. He is a deep student, a talented writer and gentle, really is not a bit of a clown. He writes many of his plays.

The actor left Columbia, after the liberty bond parade, where he pulled off a few stunts, and went to Atlanta.

TEACHERS REVIEW AS PUPILS PARADE

Interesting Spectacle Is Observed In Front of City High School Wednesday.

Col. Patrick, drillmaster of the boys of Chattanooga High school, assisted by a number of teachers, were engaged for two hours Wednesday afternoon in training the boys and girls of the High school for Friday's parade. The boys took to their marching orders like a duck to water, as they have done for the past several weeks, when at 7:30 each morning the clear notes of the reveille have sounded. Owing to their natural volubility, some profanity was experienced at first in training the girls. However, in a short time the latter were vying with their brothers in "right dress" and "forward."

The corps of teachers watched the "maneuvers" from the front steps of the High school. Preceding the exercises, Mesdames T. C. Betterton and E. S. Ricketts addressed the High school, asking that all parents join in Friday's parade, the pupils being requested to convey the message.

CONCERT SOPRANOS TO SING FOR BOYS AT FRONT

Mrs. Reihedorffer, a concert soprano, whose son is at the battle front in France, will visit Chattanooga next week as the guest of Mrs. D. A. Graves. She will arrive Tuesday, and in the evening will hold a concert in the big Y. M. C. A. hall at Fort Oglethorpe.

Since the establishment of the various cantonments Mrs. Reihedorffer has been devoting her time to singing for soldiers, and her application for service in France having been accepted, the singer will sail shortly for the war zone.

Pursuant to the admiration expressed by Gen. Joffre for the singing of Miss Anna Case, the soprano, who recently visited Chattanooga, Miss Case has made application for permission to sing patriotic songs for the boys in the trenches in accordance with Gen. Joffre's desire.

MAJOR CHILD ENJOYS RUNAWAY ADVENTURE

Rev. and Mrs. T. B. Craighead, of East Eighth street, received an unexpected call Wednesday afternoon from a tiny tot of 4 years, bareheaded and barefooted, who didn't know her name or where she lived, but said that her mother had "died" yesterday. After some questioning, the child admitted that her first name was "Frances."

"Mother" Reed, of the Vine Street orphanage, was called up to know if the runaway had escaped from there.

CARBOL
FOR CARBUNCLES

Mother Reed asked to have the baby brought over in order to ascertain. Her first glance at the child made her exclaim that the child is a real runaway and was given back from the orphanage to her mother, Mrs. Major, a short time ago, but that police headquarters had better be notified. The child was returned to the Craighead home and Chief Hackett was called.

Yes, they said at the city hall, Mrs. Major had "phoned" them of the runaway's sixth or eighth adventure, and they would be after her shortly.

The child is an interesting study in her determined way of evading all means of ascertaining who she is and where she lives.

It was while on one of these adventures last spring that an unfortunate Chattanooga lady was wrongfully accused of having abducted the Major child.
